Washington, D. C., September 13, 1895

Herman Kretz, Esq.,
Supt. U.S. Mint,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Sir:

In an interview with the Secretary of the Treasury to-day, he expressed a wish that the gold bullion now on hand at your mint be converted into coin as early as possible, and in order to accomplish this result said it should be converted into double eagles.

In order to comply with the wishes of the Department, you are hereby authorized and instructed to confine your gold coinage until otherwise directed to double eagles.

Respectfully yours,

R. C. Johnston
Director of the Mint.
